BUILD YOUR BUSINESS AROUND YOUR CUSTOMERS, NOT CHANNELS

Today's customers expect consistent and highly personalized shopping experiences, regardless of channel or touchpoint. Satisfying that desire builds loyalty, deepens relationships and grows your business. Yet most businesses don't have the infrastructure to provide this kind of customer experience.

Those companies are often burdened with a mix of legacy systems and new channel technologies that are siloed and produce redundant data. They lack the real-time inventory visibility and order management across channels needed to offer customers a "buy anywhere, get anywhere" experience. Trying to synchronize critical inventory and customer data with customer-facing systems is almost impossible. The result: business inefficiency, customer frustration and brand discontent.

TODAY'S COMMERCE

Successful businesses have moved beyond the limits of individual channels and touchpoints to deliver true omnichannel shopping and service experiences. With an infrastructure that unifies business applications and provides a single source of item, inventory, customer and order data, it's possible to create seamless, channel-agnostic, personalized experiences.

As a pioneer in the industry since 1998, NetSuite was first to provide a solution that unified ecommerce with your back office systems. Today, NetSuite's ecommerce platform powers thousands of online businesses, helping them increase revenue and expand to new heights. Backed by our professional services, extensive partner ecosystem and dedicated support, our solution provides your business everything it needs to succeed.
